

---

ROBERT DAWSON, Saint Mary's University
Complex-Number Slide Rules

During the middle of the twentieth century, various designs of slide rule to multiply and divide complex numbers were invented, and in some cases even produced commercially. Inherent limitations on the design prevented them from ever becoming very widespread, however. This talk will describe the history of these devices.